

Bay Area Intel Retiree Organization

Annual Dinner October 28, 2011

Over 60 bay area Intel retirees met at Fiorello's Restaurant in Santa Clara for the third annual retirement dinner. This was the biggest turnout yet for a retirement event.

The mix of retirees ran the gamut from those recently retired from the company to those who have been retired for over ten years. Fiorello's again provided a great setting for the dinner. When guests arrived they used their drink tickets in the bar and helped themselves to the tray of appetizers prepared just for us. Game 7 of the World Series played on the TV's for those who wanted to catch a glimpse of the action. Retirees met former colleagues from TMG, Sales, Finance, etc. to recall fun times when they worked together in Fab 1, SC4, and RNB to name a few buildings.

Guests moved into the banquet room which was set up with several round tables for friends to gather. Cheryl Pruss, Vice-President of the IRO, welcomed everyone with some opening comments including information about the Intel Retiree Organization's mission and vision and a review of the evening's agenda. She introduced our speaker, Jackie Sturm, VP of Materials and Devra Johnson, HR Director and Intel Sponsor of the IRO.

One highlight of the evening was the buffet dinner that included antipasto, chicken marsala, baked rigatoni, salads, and cakes. The food was excellent and many took home leftovers from the very generous buffet. While we were finishing up dinner, Jackie began her business update discussing the most recent quarterly results, YTD results, and of course the stock price. Server sales are doing well with the boost in sales of mobile devices. Jackie also talked about the latest technology advances and recent acquisitions. Security for cloud computing, for example, is one area of focus for the McAfee acquisition. Jackie then took questions from the audience. Guests really enjoyed hearing Jackie's intriguing update that provided some great information.

As guests grabbed dessert and coffee, Cheryl recognized the IRO committee members in attendance: Val Kohl, Cindy Romero, Terry Jalkemo, Ray Hill, and Howard High. Thanks too to Barbara Frank and Marilyn Bloom who were unable to attend. Cheryl invited other retirees to get involved and volunteer as some did redesigning our new website. She closed with reminders about Open Enrollment, the Community Giving Campaign, and Intel matching grants.

Our photographer for the evening was Gordon Jalkemo, Terry's husband. Thanks Gordon for the high-quality photos!
