

Folsom Retiree Dinner – January 25, 2012

On January 25, 2012, Folsom had its second retiree dinner at Empire Ranch Golf Club. We had a small group (~ 30) but those that attended had a great dinner and lots of fun. Event coordinator for the night was Toni Hallenbeck. The food was excellent and many took home leftovers from the very generous buffet.

The retirees were happy to see one another and talked about life outside of Intel including volunteering, travel, skiing, taking care of their children or in some cases grandchildren and other hobbies. A few retirees have opted to go back to work. Even though they were happy to be retired, many enjoyed talking about the good old days.

As guests grabbed dessert and coffee, Tammy Cyphert, VP, Sales and Marketing Group and Director of Global Operations and Productivity was introduced as our featured speaker. She began her business update discussing 2011 results, technology updates and recent acquisitions. She talked extensively about Intel's involvement with Netbooks - small low cost, low power systems which are smaller than a laptop. Tammy said Intel was partnering with various vendors that are including "Intel Inspired" on the product. She brought a Netbook with her and retirees and guests were able to take a look at it while it was passed around the attendees. Tammy then took questions from the audience. Retirees and guests enjoyed hearing Tammy's update that provided new news to many.

Retirees were reminded to go to the Retiree Web site to sign up for the Vault card and were told that the Board was working on getting Intel name badges for everyone. Retirees thought this was great but also were interested in the ability to use the Recreation Center and attend other events at Intel that retirees currently aren't invited to.

Intel provided funding for a subsidy for the buffet dinner and door prizes. Retirees and guests were given a ticket which they placed in an envelope for the prize of their choice. We randomly had people pick out the winning names with one person picking their own name. Prizes provided included wine, chocolate, restaurant gift cards, coffee assortment and a Kindle.

Kirby Hallenbeck was able to snap a few pictures of the attendees. See how many of these retirees you recognize.

A big thank you goes to Intel Corporation and our liaison, Kevin Fraczek for the door prizes and inviting our guest speaker. We would also like to thank Tammy Cyphert for taking time from her busy schedule to join us.

It was a fun event that brought together old friends and provided an opportunity to network and meet new ones with some retirees already asking when the next time would be that we would meet. A lunch will be scheduled in a couple of months.
