Both the Donation Matching Program and the Volunteer Matching Program will close on December 15 of this year. You will not be able to record any 2021 hours or request any matching for 2021 donations even when the program reopens in early January. Important details on these deadlines are posted here.

PROMOTING YOUR CAUSE

IRO's promotion guidelines limit our posting or emailing volunteer and donation opportunities to those we receive from Intel. Intel's community engagement managers pass these opportunities to our committee for communicating to IRO. Retirees can post opportunities to the IRO Facebook group. We also will post Retiree stories about their volunteer experiences in the "Life After Intel" section on the IRO Website.

Embracing Volunteering

Last modified on June 1, 2018
 Intel employees have always been active in the community. After retiring, many take volunteerism to a new level. There are stories about retirees who have been able to contribute across a wide array of organizations from pet adoption to domestic violence advocacy, from firefighting to food banks. Consider sharing your own volunteering activities with the rest of the retiree community by filling out the Volunteer Service Request and submitting it to the Communications Committee. Who knows, you may attract other volunteers to your cause!

As an Official Intel Retiree, in addition to the value your skills bring to organizations when you volunteer, Intel will pay any qualified 501 (c)(3) non-profit organization $50.00 for each hour you volunteer up to $10,000 per year.

MATCHING PROGRAM GUIDELINES UPDATED

The Intel Foundation has made some minor revisions to both their Volunteer and Donation matching programs to clean up some wording inconsistencies, formatting and correct some links and references. These documents, like the current Intel Involved payout report, replace older versions of these documents. Hence the URLs that point to these documents contain dates that no longer correspond to the dates on the posted documents and should be ignored.
